M&A Tax Attribute Services Group

Determining the Impact of Equity Transactions

Understanding the availability of U.S. tax attributes is vital for tax return and financial statement reporting. It is also a key component in determining deal value for both a buyer and a seller. In the current economic environment, it is critical to assess U.S. tax attribute limitations and loss limitations under section 382 and corresponding sections (e.g., sections 383, 384).

Navigating the intricacies and nuances of section 382 requires specialized knowledge and experience, as well as access to all current updates and rulings. The KPMG M&A Tax Attribute Services Group excels in these areas.

We determine whether an ownership change under section 382 has occurred, and if it has, we determine the consequences of that change. Alternatively, if a corporation is contemplating a transaction that might result in an ownership change, we advise on potential approaches to increase the corporation's ability to use its tax attributes after that change.

As former IRS and Treasury professionals, our specialists have been directly involved in writing and reviewing the Treasury regulations under section 382:

Mark Hoffenberg, principal in charge—Washington National Tax-Corporate, wrote the final consolidated section 382 regulations. Mr. Hoffenberg received the first Private Letter Ruling (PLR) treating built-in Cancellation of Debt Income (COD) as reducing net unrealized built-in loss and allowing the application of 382(l)(5) and (6) to consolidated groups. He was the first adviser to obtain letter rulings on section 382(l)(3)(C), and developed a methodology which was cited and adopted by the IRS in Notice 2010-50. Mr. Hoffenberg participated in drafting the American Bar Association (ABA) comment letter on the recently issued Proposed 382 regulations addressing built-in income and deduction and has attended follow-up meetings with the IRS and Treasury to discuss his views on this project.

These rules apply to all the following U.S. tax attributes:

Net operating losses

Built-in losses

Section 163(j) carryforwards

General business credits

Minimum tax credits

Capital loss carryforwards

Foreign tax credits.
